Andover takes another look

NOT AGAIN! For the second time in the school's brief 13½ year history, administrators found themselves faced with the task of getting ready for another evaluation.

Evaluation? What's that? Ask one of Andover's administrators or any of the teachers and you might get the answer, "a lot of work."

Actually, it is a process of studying the program of a school and the way it functions. This is a national study of secondary schools, done by the Middle State Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools every ten years. The results determine whether or not the school will be accredited.

Most of the work must be done the year before and that's what the staff this year had to prepare. Meeting in both curricular and extracurricular committees for months, sometimes twice a week, kept everyone busy during activity periods and after school. Finally, by May 1 the reports were ready except for final editing and updating which will be done in the fall of 1974.

Even though it was a lot of work, Mr. Oliver Wittig, Andover's principal, commented "that it forces you to take a good look at yourself." This was what the school did in 1965 for the first evaluation and even though Andover received high commendations and was accredited, the staff made needed improvements through the years.

Now as they took another look at the school they hoped for a successful evaluation in 1975.

Open lunch creates some problems

ONE LUNCH PERIOD? That's right. This year Andover students had a lunch-activity period which lasted one full hour. During this time they could go to club meetings, get help from teachers, and of course eat lunch.

They also had the privilege of going out for lunch and during the warm spring and fall days, swarms of students filled the shopping center.

But about 1,000 of Andover's students continued to eat in the cafeteria. To relieve the long lines and congestion created by so many, Mrs. Schroepher set up a snack line across the hall from the cafeteria. Here students could buy ice cream, juices, and packaged items.

In the cafeteria hot lunches continued, and these included popular favorites in a poll taken by the students such as; hamburgers, hot dogs and spaghetti.

While the cafeteria was having a booming business, so were the custodians. Because of the open lunch, people ate everywhere. They also left trash EVERYWHERE, and created more work for the custodians.

This time also kept the secretaries busy. Students took care of many problems during lunch, so to lend assistance, many of the office staff stayed close at hand and eating in the office became a habit with them.

Mr. Whiting says farewell

"I'VE CHANGED ALONG WITH THE CHANGING TIMES," reflected Mr. Richard Whiting when asked how he felt about his years at Andover. After 13½ years of guiding Andover students, Mr. Whiting retired following the 1973-74 school year.

As one of the school's first guidance counselors, Mr. Whiting came to Andover when it opened in 1961. Since then he helped the school grow through the fads and innovations of each year. He admitted that he liked it much better when Andover had a dress code but he felt that the curriculum of today and the early release policies were much more flexible and did a better job of meeting the needs of the students.

Arranging schedules, talking over problems, and compiling records fille Mr. Whiting's school day, but his dedica tion showed up out of school as well. Fo 15 years, he and his wife ran a teen cen ter in the Linthicum area every Saturda night. Many of those years they use Andover's cafeteria. When the Whiting gave up the center, nobody wanted t take it over, and Andover has not had teen center since. They also saw to it tha buses were available to carry students t all the games.

After retirement, the Whitings plan ned to move back to Pennsylvania, thei original home, and open a ceramic shop.

Living in Pennsylvania, making anc selling ceramics will be a change for the Whitings and Andover without Mr Whiting will be a change, too.

Activity-Lunch creates good business for library

WHERE IS EVERYBODY DURING LUNCH? Try the library if you can find a seat. This year because of the lunch-activity period, the library turned into Grand Central Station. Over ninety people, on the average, used the library during that hour.

According to the librarians the library could now be called the multipurpose room because of the variety of activities taking place. Student did homework, they studied, they did reference work using the study corrals and they used the media equipment. Clubs also used the library for meetings and certain activities.

Mrs. Julia Caples, librarian, and Mrs. Gloria Oxley, secretary, both were happy with the busy use of the library during lunch. They felt the students used the time wisely and were bettering their study habits.

Can you figure it out?

"IT'S GREAT. It gives the students a chance to get help in math any period of the day, any day of the week," replied Mr. Bohonek when asked how he felt about the math lab. Because the math department felt this way, they decided to use the lab to its fullest extent this year. First opened in 1971, the lab operated in room C215 for two years. This year it found a new home in C214.

Each math teacher supervised the lab sometime every day so the lab was always open. In the lab there were different types of instruments such as a slide rule and compasses. Various types of models and different math games could be used. An electronic logic trainer helped geometry students with their truth tables.

Set up basically as a remedial center, the lab expanded its services this year when some math classes became individualized. Students from these classes had the option of using the lab.

Due to the success of the lab for both remedial and individualized work the math teachers felt that the math curriculum would be geared in the same way next year.

Students work hard for college credit

AFTER AN ABSENCE of four years, Advanced Chemistry returned to the science curriculum. But it had something new to offer — college credit. Students in Advanced Placement Chemistry, by passing a test in May, received eight hours of credit, saving them about $200 in college expenses.

But the six seniors in the class, Marlon Graham, Gene Garrett, Sandy Hartzell, David Coleman, Mike Owens, and Jim Crafton, had to meet rigid standards to receive the college credit, such as three lab hours and three lecture hours per week. Thus led to many activity periods spent in the chem room, where the students, under instructor Mr. John McBride, researched such areas as kinetics and chemical thermodynamics.

Advanced Placement Chemistry also gave a new look to science facilities, with the purchase of $2500 in chemical equipment, including three Sartorius analytical balances.

This course gave more variety to science studies at Andover and will be a basis for future improvement of the science curriculum.

HOP students gain experience

INTERESTED IN A CAREER IN HEALTH? The Health Occupations Program, HOP, designed to give juniors an opportunity to work and gain experience in hospital-centered occupations was Andover's newest co-op offering this year.

Thirteen students participated in the program which demonstrated the many alternatives and choices available in the health services. The students received their training at Kimbrough Army Hospital in Fort Meade where they reported every day after lunch. Each student observed the various areas of the hospital on a rotation basis, spending a week in each area. They explored nursing service, food service administration, dentistry, optometry, physical therapy, patient administration, preventive medicine, veterinary medicine, social services, medical maintenance, pharmacy, and laboratory.

Both academic and non-academic students participated in the HOP program. The students, after observing the various areas of the health field, picked the one they preferred to find employment on a cooperative work-experience basis in their senior year.

Students get jobs through VEP

IN EFFECT FOR THE SECOND YEAR, the Vocational Experience Program helped students prepare to meet the challenges of the world after graduation. Seniors in the last phase of the three phase program worked in jobs throughout the community.

Choosing their work according to personal interests and skills three seniors found jobs. Karen Peterson kept count and records of the stock as an inventory clerk for the Southern Sign Supply Company of Glen Burnie. Karen's work assisted the manager as to when and how much new merchandise to order. Bill Cecil, who favored the outdoors, took a job with a Baltimore construction company. By landing a job at Westinghouse that incorporates being indoors with handicraft, Rick Rollette found a permanent position and set himself up for life. Rick earned great pay with many benefits.

Karen, Bill, and Rick found Jobs through VEP. They felt that the on-the-job know-how gained through these opportunities prepared them to take on the world as adults.

Students get more time to read

A NOVEL ANYONE? It seems as though Andover had gotten the reading bug!

The English department, under the direction of Mr. Wayne Shipley, added a new period to Andover's school schedule — the sustained reading period. This reading time was a 25 minute period set aside three times a week where the whole school, students and teachers, read.

Where did the idea come from? About three years ago at a workshop Dr. Dorothy Sullivan of the University of Maryland spoke on the subject "Reading in Secondary Schools." She felt that the students did not have enough time to read because of home assignments, etc. Later, a faculty committee tried to incorporate the reading time into the 1972-73 schedule but not until this year could a plan be worked out. In scheduling Principal Oliver Wittig cut ten minutes off the first period and five minutes off of the following three periods. He combined them to make the reading time.

During the first semester, the reading session rotated between the first three periods. To eliminate some of the confusion, that occurred the reading session followed a more consistent schedule second semester following third period on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday.

At the beginning of the year, more than 1500 paperbacks, and hardbacks were put into circulation.

With 25 minutes, three days a week, everyone had a little more time to read.

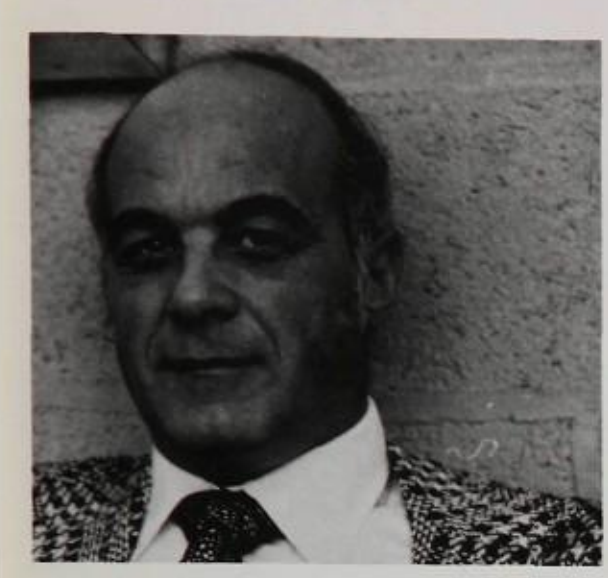
Build a dream house!



BUILD YOUR OWN HOUSE in school, complete with wall to wall carpeting and aluminum siding? That's what the four students in Mr. Angelucci's Architectural Drawing class did this year. The drawing class learned the rudiments of housing regulations, became acquainted with all the parts of a house and where these parts go and also used constructional detail.

After completing blueprints each student constructed a scale model of his house using parts cut to scale for them by the woodworking class. Other parts such as brick, siding, and carpeting, were simulated by using scored sandpaper, glassy paper, and felt.

After completing one year of drafting, students became eligible to take the class instead of Drafting II, which is more oriented to designing machine parts.

Bob Eitel summed up the architecture class pretty well, "You get to learn what a house is made of and how it all goes together."

Shape up on Universal Gym

FAT AND FLABBY? A 90 POUND WEAKLING? All of this could be remedied this year with a new piece of equipment in the gym. Finally after years of waiting Andover received a Universal Gym. It came in December at a cost of $2800.

Universal is no misnomer in that the machine contains 15 stations each providing various types of weight training exercises. Each station builds up a different part of the body if used correctly.

The "gym" proved itself invaluable for Andover's sports program. Weight training classes and athletic teams used it as part of their daily routines. Its popularity grew to such an extent that students came during the activity lunch period and after school for workouts. Girls used the "gym" as well as the guys and a community recreation program set up during the summer made the machine available for general use five days a week.

Although the universal gym took longer than expected to get here, most students agreed that it was well worth the wait.

Find your identity

PSYCHOLOGY CLASS ENROLLMENT JUMPED BY LEAPS AND BOUNDS as Andover entered its 1973-74 school year. Initiated only three years ago, the psychology curriculum at that time consisted of only two courses. But according to Robert Fossbender, who taught a full schedule of psychology, the number of students this year increased from 80 to 150.

To keep abreast of the changing curriculum, Mr. Fossbender changed his angle of instruction this year to one stressing the development of the individual. He urged students to search for their identities in relation to coping with personal identities, behavior, and anxieties. "Students must learn to defend themselves," conjected Mr. Fossbender at the beginning of the school year. Incited verbal attacks by students on a fellow classmate proved an excellent method of instruction on self-defense.

A variety of experiments throughout the year put theory into practice. Often students not taking psychology found themselves involved in bizarre psychodramas, aggression demonstrations, or group pressure exhibitions.

New angles of teaching and a wide variety of experiments gave students their first insights into the area of psychology. In words of one psychology student, "That course really helps you to get your head together."

French students travel to Canada

STUDYING A FOREIGN LANGUAGE has many rewards, but this year thirteen French students received a special one. They attended the Colleges Stanislaus and Marie de France in Montreal, Canada, both operated by the French government, to try out their knowledge of the language first-hand.

Accompanied by Miss Patricia Brown, Mrs. Shahrenaz Adjoodani, and Mr. Robert Nichols, French 4 and the top students from French 3 and 2 spent an intriguing week during March in the homes of French families residing in the Montreal area.

To help them master the finer points of practical French, the students had an opportunity to tour the city, shop in the underground mall, and take in a French movie.

In April, a reciprocal visit occurred when close to forty French students and chaperones moved in with Linthicum families to absorb something of the American way of life.

After a reception in the school library, they headed out to Columbia on a shopping spree. For the rest of the visit, students toured Washington, D.C. and Annapolis, and found time to attend classes here at Andover.

Art, inside and out

RUSTIC SCENERY AND FRESH AIR lent inspiration to Mr. Robert Nichols' drawing and painting classes when they journeyed to the barn adjoining school property as part of their classwork this year. Cats, horses and the barn itself became subjects of the aspiring artists' paintings.

This was just one of the places students visited to get new ideas to challenge their creativity. Sometimes they took strolls around in the field across the street.

Back in school an introduction to leather work stimulated their interest. During class, at lunch and after school students could be found in Art Room 4 making belts, purses, watch and wrist bands, sandals, clogs, barretts, key-chains, and chessboards. Because of so much interest, next year an entire class on leather has been added to the curriculum.

Displays showing drawings, paintings, ceramics, sculpture and other crafts decorated the building as evidence of the creativity and talent stimulated by art courses this year.

Guys prepare for bachelor life

EVERYONE KNOWS THAT TEENAGE BOYS have the most amazing appetites and, according to Mrs. Adele Degnan, that is the reason why they take the foods courses. In the last three years enrollment has grown two and a half times and it looks like it will continue to grow.

All of the Foods 2 classes this year were co-ed but in Foods 1, boy and girls separated. Because, the girls had home-ec in junior high and knew the basics, they went into nutrition while the boys learned the fundamentals.

Mrs. Degnan, head of the home-ec department, stated that the co-ed classes were good. Sharing most of the work, the girls and boys got along fine baking cookies and main dishes too. Mrs. Degnan thought the course would help if the guys remained bachelors or if their wives got sick and they had to do the cooking. She added, "It helps them appreciate what Mom goes through three times a day."

Well, maybe the boys learned some new skills and maybe they will appreciate Mom more and be more understanding but this year was just a lot of fun and good things to eat.

Women's lib hits Stage Band

EQUAL RIGHTS FINALLY came to Andover's Stage Band. For the first time in the school's history, Tina Stack, a senior girl, broke the sex barrier and performed with the previously all-male group.

Considered by the boys and Mr. Shoup as one of "the gang," Tina played piano and traveled with the band to quite a few schools this year. After starting off the year with the yearbook assembly on December 4, the Stage Band continued with their performances at the annual Stage Band Adjudication at Rockville High School where they received high ratings of a (1) — superior and two (2)'s — excellent. They played at several elementary schools including Glendale, Richard Henry Lee, and Hilltop, and combining with the Chorus, they performed their annual concert at Martin Spalding High School.

Tina also played for the Advanced Chorus which toured Anne Arundel County. Some of their programs included the Christmas Concert, Choral Adjudication, and the Spring Concert.

With all their travels, the music department had a very busy year.

Six years at Andover

OUR SIX YEARS AT ANDOVER began in the fall of 1968, seventh grade, but the class did not become very active until our freshman year. That year we sponsored the Freshman Dance, netted $12 on a car wash, and tried to have a paper drive.

1971-1972 found us sophomores. We sponsored the Slave Dance, the Sweetheart Dance, sold "74" buttons and did a boot camp skit at Big "A" Night.

Our junior year, with Montel Williams, president, Birdy Gillis, vice-president, Sue McEachern, secretary and Barbara Floyd, treasurer began our reputation as a class of "firsts." We held our Ring Dance, sponsored the film "Little Big Man" and upset the Seniors by two points in Donkeyball. In Big "A" Night we entered "The Queer Cowboys" and our one act play was "No Exit." Our Junior Prom, the first ever held out of school, was at the Club Venus. Reed Parks and Tom Garrigan were our class sponsors.

SENIORS AT LAST! Along with the same advisors, President Montel Williams, Vice-President Terry Sobiski, Secretary Julie Stocks, and Treasurer Darlene Stracke made this year our most active. Our first big event was Winter Wonderland and we co-sponsored a band concert with the Class of 1975. We sponsored Big "A" Night and the Senior Girls performed a record pantomime. Our one act play was "Plaza Suite." The last day of school was May 31 and the Senior Prom was held later that evening at the Emerald Gardens with two bands. Graduation was held on June 4 at Catonsville Community College due to the size of our class — 503.

And we were the last class to completely go through Andover.

Gridders finish 6-4, best since '65

SIX AND FOUR — that was the story of the 1973 Archer football season. "The year was very satisfying and we accomplished some of our goals that we set for ourselves," said head coach Jim Dillon of the season.

Finishing with the best record since 1965, Archer football was characterized by a grueling defense, and a freewheeling, passing offense.

The Archer defense, spearheaded by middle-guard Chuck Allers and tackle Jack Powell, turned in two particularly outstanding performances. In the opening loss to Howard, the Archer defense, in a fine team effort, held the explosive Lions scoreless until a field goal, with six seconds remaining, proved to be the margin of defeat.

However in Andover's final game of the year, the defense shut out Glen Burnie to provide the season's highlight, the first victory ever over the Gophers.

Offensively, Andover possessed a potent passing attack. Quarterback Pat Griffith, who led the county in passing with 1017 yards, went primarily to split end Mike Hoey who ended the year with 26 catches and 5 T.D.'s. Griffith and Hoey hooked up for a 76 yard T.D. pass against Glen Burnie which set an Archer record. For his efforts Hoey was named Andover's first Football All-American.

A balanced running attack was also a feature of the Archer offense. Gary Atkinson led Archer runners with 385 yards gained.

Andover gridders received a number of individual honors with Mike Hoey, Jack Powell, and Brian Clevenger being named to the All-County team. Fran Duffy received honorable mention All-State for his efforts at defensive end.

Coach Dillon accredited the winning season to the players who "wanted to play and weren't afraid to work to do it."

Archer kickers — twice champions

AFTER A SLOW START, the Archer soccer team rolled all the way to the District V championship. The county race was a close one with Andover, Annapolis and Glen Burnie all tied for first place going into the last two games. Annapolis lost, Glen Burnie tied and the Archers won giving them the county crown. They went on to win the district title by defeating Bel Air, but Dundalk finally stopped them in the semi-finals of the state tournament.

Coach Steve Malone spent the beginning of the season constantly shuffling positions. Only halfback Billy Waters played the same position as he did the year before. But by the time the county season began, Malone had found the winning combination, and the Archers chalked up a 6-1 record.

Despite the championship season, Andover placed only one player on the All-County team, junior Scott Allison, who was also tied for the county's most valuable player. The second team, however, included six Archers, Lance Wagner, Billy Waters, Glenn Birx, Jeff Barth, Mike Daciek, and Don Hudson.

Coach Malone summed up the season saying that they won as a team, not as individuals.

Archers suffer from lack of height

LACK OF AN EXPERIENCED big man usually means trouble for a basketball team and the Archers proved no exception. Although 6'5" sophomore Steve Stielper ended the season by scoring twenty points or more a game in five of the last six games, the cagers began the season with no starters over 6'1".

The backcourt duo of Bob Hogan and Terry Sepkowski was one of the bright spots of the season with Hogan setting records in steals — 65 for the year and 95 for his career — and assists — 11 against Severna Park. Sepkowski set three free throw percentage records — 77.8 per cent career, 77.97 per cent this season and 16 for 16 against Arundel.

Terry's outside shooting and Mike Daciek's consistent play at forward kept many games at reasonable scores and for their efforts they won honorable mention All-County in two polls. Steve Stielper set a record for field goal percentage in a single game of 80 per cent.

According to Coach Dick Hart, the reasons for the season's record were lack of height, inconsistent scoring and bad breaks — two losses to Brooklyn Park in the last seconds on foul shots.

The Archers played very good games against county powerhouses Annapolis, Severna Park and Southern but their lack of depth always showed up in the last quarter.

Overall the Archers started off with a very inexperienced team, but as Stielper's strong finish revealed, the year's experience was valuable.

Girls improve record

ENTHUSIASM AND DESIRE, which contribute to any good sports team, were the key factors for the success of girls' basketball. The Archer girls turned a losing 5-7 record of a year ago into a 7-5 season this year, as they continued to become increasingly competitive in county play.

Although basketball is a relatively new sport for girls at Andover Coach Entsminger promised, "As the girls gain experience and improve in fundamentals, the quality of the game and the calibre of play will be upgraded."

However, for any lack of skills that the girls may have had, they made up for it in enthusiasm, hard work, and team play. All members of the team, whether they sat on the bench or played full-time, were concerned only with what was best for the team.

The team leaders were senior veterans Ellen Restivo and Ann Wellham. Valerie Gray, one of the unsung heroes on the team, was in the words of Coach Entsminger, ". . . a real hustler who gave 100 per cent all the time." Jane Stork and Cherie Hammond, who formed an effective rebounding duo, filled out the starting lineup.

The highlight of the season was the 12 point victory over Brooklyn Park. Archer shooting was good in that game, as it was all year with a 58 per cent field goal average over the season.

Grapplers improve record, build for future

ALTHOUGH HAMPERED by lack of personnel, the varsity wrestling team improved its one win record of last year to a 3-8 record this season.

Underclassmen again made up the team with no seniors, six juniors, and 4 sophomores.

In county tournament competition, the Archers had two fourth place finishers, Mike Schaal at 141 lbs. and Mike Bock at 108. Both Mikes shared the outstanding varsity wrestler honors.

New faces with little experience partially filled JV team slots, and the junior matmen finished with a 2-8 record. Each match had four weight classes forfeited because there were only eight wrestlers. Gary Willis finished in second place in the county tournament at 115 lbs. and captain Jim Stracke, finished third at 108 lbs.

With the experience gained by both teams, Coach Larry Radford looks forward to next year.

Archer stickmen go to regional finals

"GENTLEMEN, THIS IS PERHAPS THE most successful season I've ever coached at Andover." That was Coach Jon Appelt's statement after the regional playoff game with Towson, which was the highlight of the season. Playing at Catonsville Community College, the Archers represented the AA schools of Anne Arundel County for the public high school championship of the state. They lost, 8-4, but the game was very exciting and a lot closer than the score indicated.

Coach Appelt's feelings reflected the total accomplishments of the varsity team this year as the stickers tied for first place in the county, placed eleventh in the state, and went to the regional finals.

With 16 seniors returning with at least three years playing time, the lacrosse team was the most experienced yet. Again this year, the Archers depended on defense to stifle their opponents holding them to 2.8 goals a game. This was done with the help of All-County defensemen Fran Duffy and Chuch Allers. Duffy also became the school's third All-American. Attackman Bob Bray led the offense which had a great deal of depth. Both Bray and midfielder Eric Winterstein made the All-County team.

Coach Appelt said many times during the year, "The weak get weaker and the strong get stronger," and the experienced '74 stickmen proved this with their most productive season ever.

Indians raid Andover for Hanson

AT THE TOP OF THE LIST of county pitchers — that's how Steve Hanson topped off his high school career. And for his efforts the Cleveland Indians selected him in the seventh round of the major league draft. In the nine games which Hanson pitched, he struck out 102 batters including a season high of 17 against Brooklyn Park, and tossed two shut outs. In addition he made the All Coaches, All Metro, and All County first teams.

Coupled with Hanson's pitching four players batting over .300 led the Archers to a 9-5 record in county baseball. Fred Poole, also selected to the All Coaches first team, pounded out a .441 average while teammates Mike Hoey, John Hogarty, and Tubby Mosco followed close behind.

"We had the best looking team in the county, smooth and accurate, but a couple of bad breaks cost us the championship," reflected Coach Richard Bohonek. For one, the team lost pitcher Greg Lavinder in the fifth game of the season because of tendonitis. This lack of pitching behind Hanson hurt the team.

"The guts were there," says Bohonek "but the luck wasn't."

Softballers "streak" to winning season

STREAKS PLAYED A LARGE PART in the Archer girls' softball success this season. The girls had two long strings of victories, one of five games and one of four games, which paced them to a strong third place finish in the county with an overall record of 10-4.

The team had a knack for winning the close ones with five of their wins being decided by two runs or less. To win the close games, a team must have a strong defense and this team was no exception. Anchored by Joyce Emge, the "smoothest shortstop in the county" in the words of Coach Entsminger, the Archers had a fine defensive infield to back up number one pitcher Donna Stith.

However, the team also had some fine hitters. Connie Hawks and Ellen Restivo provided much of the punch in a lineup which scored an average of almost eight runs a game. The highlight of the season for the hitters on the team came in the seventh game against Annapolis. Although the defense let down and gave up sixteen runs to Annapolis, the offense came through and scored a season-high nineteen runs.

The Archer girls definitely had a fine year, however according to Coach Entsminger they needed "better concentration and poise to win the county."

Track Team busts three school records

"TOUGH BREAKS." This is how the Archer track team's season could be described in one phrase. Each of the Archer's first two meets was decided by less than half of a second, as they both came down to the last race. These tough two losses seemed to set the mood for the rest of the season.

The season was disappointing especially because the team had quite a few outstanding individual performers, but not enough depth in most events. The best performer on the team had to be senior John Dewaal. He broke school records in both the mile, with a time of 4:30.8 and the 880, with a time of 2:01. He was also one of only two Archers to advance to the state meet. Other outstanding performers were Louis Kimble, who became co-holder of the school 100 yard dash record, with a time of 10.1,. Bruce Fink, only other Archer to go to the State meet with a second place in the discus, and Bill Turner, who broke the school record in the pole vault, with a vault of 11'2".

The indoor season was an unqualified success in its first year at Andover. The Archers finished ninth in the state meet, defeating such county powers as Arundel and Northeast. This team produced Andover's first state champion in Louis Kimble, who won the 50 yard dash.

Coach Dennis Saylor did a fine job in conditioning both teams, with his use of computerized workouts and his dedication in staying with the team every day from mid-winter to late spring.

Volleyball and track girls work hard

WINNING NINE MEDALS IN THE county track meet topped off the season for the girls' track team.

Glenda Mullins led the girls by taking four medals in the county meet, while Anne Smith earned the only first place medal by winning the discus. Other medal holders included Carol Stone in the 440 yd. run, Melanie Bloucher taking second in the high jump, and Janet Cox, Carol Stone, Melanie Bloucher, and Glenda Mullins in the 880 relay.

Under the direction of Miss Debbie Baker and Mrs. Betty Cavanaugh, the team doubled in size this year and worked hard. In each of the two scheduled tri-meets they placed second and in the district meet they participated but did not place.

The girls' volleyball teams wound up a hard fought season by posting a 7-7 record for the varsity and a 4-4 record for JV.

According to Mrs. Jackie Catterton, the coach of both teams, scores don't always tell the story. Much individual effort and improvement took place behind the scores. Two seniors, Ellen Restivo and Ann Wellham, who shared "Girl Athlete of the Year" honors, helped motivate the varsity throughout the season.

With the loss of only three seniors and the experience gained this year the team developed a strong nucleus for future seasons.

Mike Daciek leads netmen to victory

ARCHER NETMEN VOLLEYED to a winning record for the second year in a row. Led by Mike Daciek, who played in the number one position, the Archers finished the season with an 8-3 record to place third in the county.

In the county-district championships, held for the first time this year, Jeff Cowan and Gene Garrett combined their skills to place second in the county for boys' doubles. Sharon May and Betty Linthicum did the same in girls' doubles and in boys' and girls' singles Mike Daciek and Peggy Garrett finished second and third respectively.

Throughout the regular season, Coach Charles Gosnell stressed team effort as well as individuality. Gosnell, known for his line, "the wind is definitely a factor," worked hard to keep all members of the team well prepared and it paid off.

In his four year high school career Mike Daciek had the best record of anyone to play tennis for Andover and finished the '74 season 12-1. Jeff Cowan, seeded number three on the team, played well all year winning decisively against Severna Park when everyone else lost. Also coming through to get the job done were Gene Garrett, playing number two, and Terry Sepkowski, playing fourth.

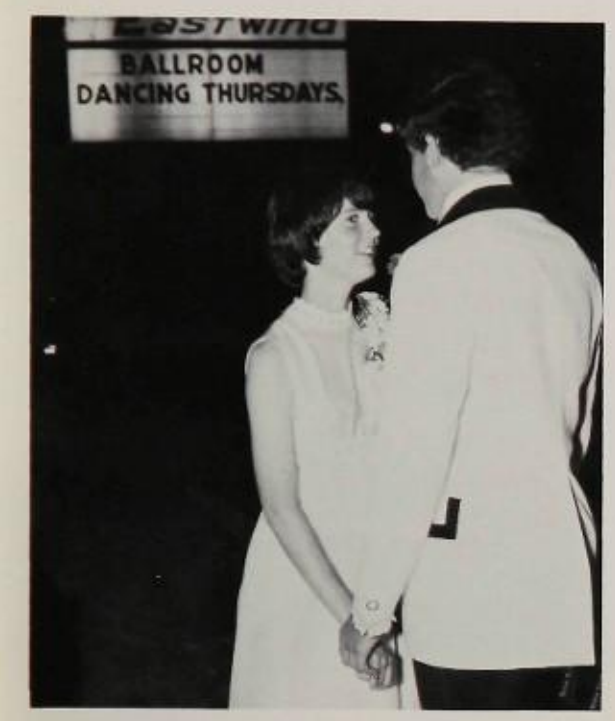
And When the Evening Comes



BALLROOM
DANCING THURSDAYS

Big moment for juniors finally arrives

JUNIORS AND THEIR DATES had plenty to admire the evening of October 13 as they received their class rings at the annual Ring Dance from 8 to 11.

Principal Oliver Wittig and Sophomore class officers assisted in the distribution of the rings which highlighted the evening. Gail Bytella, the Junior class president stated, "Four hundred juniors in all received their rings." They had been waiting since May when they ordered their rings. Their selections included a wide variety from smooth, all different birth stones, to stones with the symbolic "A" on them.

When they weren't showing off their rings the juniors danced to the music of Staggerwing and autographed a large poster in the cafeteria lobby which was a new idea this year.

Most couples found time to dance and accept the ring from their date under the large flower decorated arbor which replaced the traditional ring. The long awaited ring will last as will the memories of the evening.

Jury's verdict — Not guilty

"NOT GUILTY" WAS THE jury's verdict at the fall play, "Night of January 16th," sponsored by the drama department October 26 and 27.

The play, a courtroom drama, featured Sharon Feshenfeld playing the part of Karen Andre, who was charged with murdering her boss, Bjorn Faulkner.

Defending Karen, Debbie Grant presented her case to a jury picked from the audience, providing a new twist to murder trials. Presenting the evidence against Karen was Montel Williams' job as prosecuting attorney. But both nights he was unable to influence the jury to come up with a guilty verdict.

John Vogel played the judge and other actors included Karen Burgman, Elizabeth Liz, Kathy Riggs, David Cofer, Nancy Casamento, Sarah Stewart, Ken Irwin, Joe Webster, Cindy Bolt, and Kenny Bryant.

Suspense, curiosity, and excitement of "Night of January 16th" created an entertaining evening for Andover theater goers.

Darlene Stracke crowned Homecoming Queen

HOMECOMING 1974 BEGAN WITH a gusty bonfire the night of November 2, followed by a pizza party in the cafeteria. These two events raised spirit to a high pitch in time for the festivities the next day.

Getting things started, the traditional Homecoming Parade led off Saturday at 1 p.m. Two floats, the Black Culture Club and the Arrow, participated, followed by the annual game and the crowning of the Homecoming Queen.

At halftime, Darlene Stracke was crowned by Nancy Doelle, last Year's queen. Various clubs and organizations presented her with remembrances of the day. The gifts included an autographed football and soccer ball, flowers, a stuffed animal, a watch, a bracelet, and a necklace.

Ending the afternoon's events enthusiastically, the Andover Archers defeated the Brooklyn Bees 18-6.

Later that evening Jeremiah provided the music at the Homecoming Dance held from 8 to 11. The cafeteria decorated along a 50's theme and paper stars displayed the names of late night movie idols. At 10:00 Jeramiah became Jimmy Joy and the Goofer Boys, a greaser band, and played a solid hour of rock and roll music.

For the homecoming alumni as well as the Andover students the evening was a nostalgic success.

Play wins superior rating

"THE BRICK AND THE ROSE," first presented at Andover in 1971, came to the stage again this year with a different cast of Jay Vogel, Sandy Nehring, Tom O'Brien, Debi Hamer, Ken Irwin, Don Sakers, Dave Cofer, Denise Ballard, and Mary Miller.

The school viewed the serious play about a drug addict, January 18, at two assemblies. The following week, the cast and director, Mrs. Marguerite Yanovitch, traveled to the County Play Festival at Glen Burnie High, where they received special recognition for "Best Acting Ensemble" and a "superior" rating (the highest) from two out of three judges. The group also attended the Regional Festival and was well received by both judges and audience.

Originally intended as a collage for voices (meaning that this particular play was not meant to be acted out) "The Brick and the Rose" had to be altered slightly because of its length — over an hour — and staging was added.

Lettermen's choice

"SNOWED OUT!" That's what happened to the 1974 Varsity "A" Dance. Instead of being held on February 8 as planned, it had to be rescheduled for February 18.

The nominees and crowd danced to the music of Politesse while awaiting the announcement of the winner. Finally Lennie Cox, president of the Varsity "A" club, crowned senior Cheryl Banke as the new queen. She was picked out of a field of six, two girls from each class, in a penny vote.

"The Boyfriend" entertains at dinner theater

SIX SOPHOMORE, JUNIOR, AND SENIOR GIRLS proved that getting a boyfriend can be exciting in the spring musical this year, entitled "The Boyfriend."

Held on the evenings of May 3, 4, and 5 and sponsored by the Andover Mothers' Club, the play was the first venture into the dinner theatre arena ever attempted by Andover. Directed by Robert Nichols, with Alden Shoup supervising the musical aspects, the show was very well received by both patrons and the cast, who served a fried chicken dinner before the 8:30 "curtain" in the cafeteria.

Sarah Stewart, Charlotte Armstead, Doreen Zinnert, Brenda Brooks, Sharon Saul, and Sandy Nehring, spent three enthusiastic evenings trapping Dave Murph, Dave Cofer, Bill Rolig, Frank Duffy, Ricardo Huguley, and Ken Lehman, into marriage.

Other members of the cast included Sheree Fehsenfeld, Doug Albright, Mary Miller, Ken Irwin, Debbie Grant, Arthur Cox, Anna Priscilla, Melanie Burley, and Tom O'Brien who sang and danced their way through the play set in the gay and frivolous Paris of 1926.

Southern Springtime sets theme for pageant

WOULD YOU BELIEVE ANDOVER boys doing the waltz? That's exactly what 11 Varsity "A" members learned to do for the Miss Andover Pageant.

To go along with the southern springtime setting and a nostalgic look at the old south, each contestant and her escort participated in a grand march and then the waltz. During the waltz, the couples paused, allowing a question to be asked of each girl. The question pertained to the girl's interests and future plans.

During two daytime assemblies, the school voted on the basis of the way the girl answered the question along with her grades, personality, appearance, and poise. To be a contestant, each girl must have participated in at least two school activities in her senior year. Slides of each participant showed her various achievements to the audience, and also helped them choose their favorite.

Darlene Stracke seemed to fit all these qualifications to a great many people, and when the big moment came she won the crown of Miss Andover for 1974. Marlon Graham representing the Archer, the sponsoring organization of the event, presented Darlene with a trophy and she received a bouquet of roses, a Winnie the Pooh bear, a music box, and several other presents from school organizations.

Juniors follow trend of out-of-school prom

WHERE IS THE EASTWIND? This was asked by many juniors who found themselves lost on Saturday, May 25, while trying to find the Junior Prom.

But 107 couples made it to the Eastwind in spite of its location, and found themselves dancing away the night to the sounds of "Legend." When the Juniors weren't dancing or passing around their prom memory books, they enjoyed the atmosphere of the romantic out-of-school setting.

An added activity of the evening included awarding a door prize to the couple with the winning ticket and they received a free dinner for two at Lancer's Pub. For her year's work as president, the class presented Gail Bytella with a locket inscribed "From the Class of '75."

The prom ended at 1 a.m. with one last slow dance and memories to fill the year.

Streaking, Watergate, and no gas

STREAKING, WATERGATE, AND THE ENERGY CRISIS — that's what was news in '74. And Andover felt the impact.

The year started off with Watergate followed close behind by the energy crunch. All kinds of fuel saving measures like turning thermostats back to 68 in rooms and 60 in halls, and an extended Christmas vacation made students and teachers aware of the problem.

In February the gas scare became a reality and drivers found themselves waiting in gas lines for hours and sometimes only getting $3 worth.

Then the fad of the year hit — streaking. The nude runners started first on college campuses and then spread to high schools. Andover's first streaker made his nighttime dash at the Slave Dance, March 23, on the teachers' parking lot; and at the awards assembly May 31, several more seniors made their appearances.

On the fashion scene, jeans continued to be the popular way to dress, only this year straight-legged ones topped the chunkier, wilder than ever platforms.

Hair got shorter and dresses got longer as everyone again looked to the past — the 40's and 50's for ideas.

Everybody went to see The Sting, The Exorcist, and The Way We Were and some went to parties "on the hill."

And when the school year ended, Watergate was still around.

Rain again for the Senior Prom

RAINING ON PROM NIGHT? Of course! It seems to be part of tradition to rain on the night of the Senior Prom and this year was no different.

But that did not stop seniors and their dates. Couples started arriving at the Emerald Gardens at 8:15, even though dinner was not to be served till 9 o'clock. Before they went to sit down, each couple received a Prom program and each senior received a small cordial glass with the Andover seal on it.

When dinner was served the menu consisted of fruit, salad, prime rib of beef, potatoes, green beans, rolls and apple pie for dessert. At the beginning of the meal, the president of the Senior class, Montel Williams, addressed the group and presented gifts to the Senators, officers and the class sponsors, Mr. Reed Parks and Mr. Tom Garrigan.

At ten o'clock the meal was over, and the dance floor quickly crowded as continuous music came from alternating bands, the New Diablos and Legend. For the rest of the evening, couples danced, or had their pictures taken out in the lobby, or rested and sampled the punch and snacks. At 1 o'clock, the last band to play, Legend, stopped and bid the class of '74 farewell and good luck. From here the couples left and went to private parties or went home and packed for the weekend in Ocean City.

The damp weather did not dampen spirits and everyone had a most memorable evening.

Class of '74 graduates at Catonsville

IN AN UNFAMILIAR SETTING the Class of '74 graduated on June 4. Because of the large class — 503 seniors, the commencement took place at Catonsville Community College. The exercises were the first to be held away from the school.

At about 7 p.m. senior advisors, Mr. Reed Parks and Mr. Thomas Garrigan, led the procession into the gym. After a stirring solo by Sharon Saul of "Sunrise, Sunset," principal Oliver B. Wittig presented awards to the graduating seniors. Marlon Graham received valedictorian honors while Richard Barrows and Karen Burgman shared the title of salutatorian.

Finally, before an audience composed mainly of proud parents and relatives, Dr. Hendrickson of the Anne Arundel County Board of Education presented the diplomas. Mr. Wittig gave his Farewell to the seniors, stressing the many "firsts" of the class and challenging them to be the first to hold a class reunion.

With that the tassels moved from right to left signifying the change from student to graduate.

Senate introduces WAND

"GOOD AFTERNOON! THIS IS WAND, RADIO 74 . . . " sounded throughout the school every day as the Student Senate sponsored radio station came on the air. Operating from the new Student Senate office and the PA room, Andover's WAND began broadcasting music, announcements, and features (such as the anti-litter "Sin-Bin") in January.

This was only one of the many services and accomplishments of the Senate during the past year. They continued to sponsor Homecoming festivities, Donkey Basketball, the Awards and Election assemblies, and the daily canteen service. They initiated "Gripe Day" and Principal's Buzz Sessions, which brought up problems arising in school such as parking, the activities-lunch period, or the energy crisis. Production of the school handbook, sponsoring Walkathon hikers, holding a reception for the Montreal students and numerous other services filled their busy schedule.

In addition 30 students represented Andover at two MASC Conventions and sent out the MASC newsletter. Andover also hosted a CRASC general meeting and the CRASC banquet with board members and administrators.

Overall, communications were improved greatly between those who run the school system and those who live in it — the students.

Staffs work hard to improve publications

SPARKED WITH NEW ENTHUSIASM THE Archer and Arrow staffs worked to produce better publications this year.

Increasing its number of issues to eleven, the most ever, the newspaper staff rushed to meet three week deadlines. Advertising sales proved to be a financial success along with three paper drives, three car washes, and money raised at the student canteen.

King Zulu, his daughter, jungle natives, and Horace, the yearbook salesman provided exotic entertainment at the yearbook assembly, as the new staff campaigned and sold subscriptions for this year's edition of the Archer. After selling a record 800 books, the staff got down to the real job of getting the books to the press.

When they received word in April that the 1973 Archer had won first place in the state at the Maryland Scholastic Press Association Convention, the staff worked harder than ever to come up with a book that would bring back the trophy a second year.

Both staffs spent long hours raising money and working toward deadlines to come up with their best editions.

Money — always a problem

BROKE! THAT'S WHAT THE VARSITY "A" CLUB was this year. Well, not exactly. They did end the year with $8, but losing money on their annual dance and selling sweaters, tee shirts and jackets with Andover written on them at cost cut their fund raising returns.

"I wanted to spread the name of the school around," stated Robert Nichols, sponsor. He thought this was accomplished as many of the items were ordered and sold. So even though their activities didn't bring in any money, the lettermen did boost school spirit.

On the other hand the National Honor Society, another selective organization ended the year with more money than they thought. From their paper drives and candy sales, the group netted about $600. Out of this they voted to give two senior members, Karen Albright and David Linthicum, $50 book scholarships. With the rest of the money they bought pins and honor cords for graduation; and when the bill for the cords was less than anticipated, they ended the year with about $150 in their treasury.

The club also distributed the $500 prize money from "It's Academic" in ten $50 book scholarships to seniors.

Cheerleaders revive tradition of "Mr. Andover"

"MR. ANDOVER! What's that?" questioned many people. This year the cheerleaders decided to renew the old tradition of "Mr. Andover" and make some money at the same time. In a penny vote contest, Fran Duffy won, out of a field of six. Competition was fierce especially among the girl admirers, so the total intake was over $170. At a pizza party held after the Brooklyn Park basketball game, the cheerleaders presented Mr. Andover with a plaque.

This was just one of the cheerleaders' projects to make money for pep buses. The cheerleaders also sold Easter eggs, candy bars, and green and gold shakers.

But, most of their time they spent in many long hours of practice. It started in the heat of the summer for camp and ended in the same heat of the next summer. A group of these girls attended an International Cheerleading Foundation camp held at UMBC from July 22 to July 27. While at camp, they received the spirit award and a white ribbon.

With their practices and the addition of two people to the prep squad, the girls were able to cover all sporting events and give more support.

Pep Club, Ecology Club help school

SHARING THE SAME INTEREST, to help the school, the Ecology Club and the Pep Club worked in two different directions this year.

For their goal, to encourage spirit, the Pep Club tried a new approach by selling Andover pennants for football, basketball, and soccer. At meetings held every other Wednesday, approximately 20 active members also supported the club by painting signs for the different sports, and on game days they sponsored and rode pep buses to the games.

When asked the purpose of Ecology Club, Joyce Emge, president, replied, "to encourage the conservation of our natural resources by cleaning up littered areas, and collecting and recycling bottles and papers." They carried out their purpose with a few of the year's activities including monthly bottle drives and clean-up around the school and spending a weekend at Arlington Echo where they planted trees and shrubs — a big conservation project.

Both clubs carried out their ideas and enjoyed doing it.

Choruses sing out

"SOUNDS OF SILENCE" RANG OUT as the Advanced Chorus performed this popular tune at the 12th Annual Mid-Winter Concert, March 15. Under the direction of R. Alden Shoup and Richard Albright the Chorus performed tunes ranging "from Mozart to Simon and Garfunkel."

The Vocal Ensemble, an extra-curricular group, that rehearses twice a week during the lunch-activity period, also participated in the concert.

As an added feature at the Concert duo pianists Cindy Ferree and Tina Stack performed the first movement of "Scaramouche" by Milhaud. They also performed at a Vocal Ensemble Competition on May 11. To finish up the year, they played at the Spring Concert on May 30.

Other activities such as singing Christmas carols at the Harundale Mall, performing the annual Christmas and Spring Concerts, and traveling to St. John's for a concert, kept the Chorus quite busy.

In addition to all this, they competed in the Choral Adjudication, April 23, and as a learning experience, the Chorus traveled to Glen Burnie High School for a choral workshop.

The year, like many others, was very productive for the Choruses.

Bands participate in community

AS WAS THE CUSTOM FOR the past couple of years, the Marching Band and majorettes again performed for the community. Taking part in the Linthicum Youth-Friends House Christmas Parade, they started at Andover and marched through the streets of Linthicum bringing much enjoyment to both young and old.

Led by drum major Mike Owens, they also performed half-time shows at all home football games and in May they made their annual appearance at the Flower Mart sponsored by the Women's Club of Linthicum Heights.

Along with the Marching Band, the Stage Band played at the annual Winter and Spring Concerts. They traveled to other schools to perform concerts, along with participating in most school assemblies. To end the year, they played for the Awards Assembly and the Miss Andover Contest.

High School students from all over the nation competed in the contests.

During the school year the club held a bake sale and paper drives, which helped the club with a few of their expenses.

George Burkhead, the club's president, was named Outstanding Distributive Education Student in Anne Arundel County.

Each year the club seems to have at least one member achieve an award and this year was no different.

Pat wins first

ON MARCH 18th the business classes were still in full swing at 3:30 in the afternoon when Andover's FBLA hosted the annual Region Six FBLA Contest. Taking tests given in all business subjects in competition with students from eight other schools, Andover had one first place regional winner, Patricia Mannion, who not only took top honors in Junior Accounting but went on to win first place in the state and a chance for national competition in San Francisco. Twelve other girls placed second and third in the regionals.

To send five students and two sponsors to the State Competition in Ocean City and Patricia to the National Competition, the club built up their treasury. They sold Tom Wyatt showcase items, stationery, candy, and tickets at football games.

The club members felt that the club kept them busy all year and that the year was very successful.

Activities fill year for French and German Clubs

"TO ENHANCE THE LEARNING of French people and how they live, their customs, and their ideas, etc. outside of a classroom situation," that is the purpose of the French Club according to President Joyce Emge.

Both the French and German Clubs of Andover fulfilled this purpose, filling the year with many activities.

With greatly increased membership and more involvement, the French Club focused its attention on more activities such as going to French productions, restaurants, countries, etc. The activities included a money-making Linthicum House Tour, October 14, a visit to a French restaurant, Le Papillion, December 7, a student exchange program between Andover French students and students from Montreal in the latter part of the year, and the French café, for the second year in the spring.

The past school year was a very fruitful one for the German Club also. With profits from German "gummy bear" and Toblerone candies, the club went to a German restaurant and had several parties throughout the year.

This year the regular German Club decided to extend the club through the summer. The club would be separate from the regular club with its own officers. Planning to meet at least three times a month, the summer German Club hoped to sponsor activities including picnics, pool parties, bowling, and a few trips to German festivals.

Both clubs had a lot of fun in the activities they sponsored for the past school year.

BLACK AWARENESS rose to new heights at Andover with the formation of the school's first Black Cultural Club. Under the sponsorship of Prince Jernigan and Cicero Robinson, the club met Tuesdays and Thursdays during the second half of the new activity-lunch period.

To start off the year right, the 33 members entered a float in the Homecoming Parade and won first place.

The celebration of Black History Week highlighted the year's activities. Beginning on February 16, the week saw a variety of Black functions. Bulletin boards featuring Black historians, club members wearing African styles of fashion and a soul jammer day on WAND, the school's radio station, took up the better part of the week. A "Soul Food" Sampler in which students could sample traditional Black foods cooked by the mothers of the club, completed the week long celebration.

For their final project, the goup presented a combination fashion show and dance in the cafeteria May 24.

With their many activities the club had a busy first year.

Interest in drama increases

BECAUSE OF THE MANY AND VARIED TYPES OF PRODUCTIONS put on this year at Andover, Thespian Troupe #2347 boasted its largest group ever — 33 members.

All 33 participated in some way in the full-length fall play — "The Brick and the Rose;" Big "A" Night; the One Act Play Festival between the three classes here at Andover and yearly sponsored by the Thespians; or the spring musical — "The Boyfriend."

This year also found more Thespians than ever earning stars, which represent ten hours more work past the ten needed to get in, and one Thespian, Debbie Grant, earning a bar, which represents 60 points. Two other senior Thespians had already earned bars — Mary Miller and Debbie Bohn, with 96 and 86 points respectively.

With the graduation of this year's seniors, there were only nine Thespians left. But with the hopes of the Troupe sponsor, Mrs. Marguerite Yanovitch, for continued interest and enthusiasm in dramatics, perhaps next year will bring another large group of Troupers to #2347.

Film makers and puppeteers provide entertainment

TAKING A YEAR and filmed on location, the Film Club's feature movie of the year, "True Grub" proved to be a great success. Starring Ed Koucheravy, Mark Albergo, Anna Priscilla and Dave Cofer, the film concerned the plight of a cattle rancher chasing the "bad guys" who robbed him in the turn-of-the-century west.

Also during the year the club, headed by adviser Wayne Shipley, made a World War II film, the film "Oh, No" for Big "A" Night and showed various rented films for a small admission during the activity period.

Another group concerned in entertainment, the puppeteers, made 45 performances of seven original scripts written by the students.

Using hand puppets made by art students, the performers traveled to schools, charities, and ladies' clubs throughout the state, with requests for shows stretching from Pennsylvania to Virginia. The puppeteers' sponsor, Mr. Robert Nichols said, "We tried to give the kids, which sometimes were 350 in number, a good time and we had a great time doing it."

Photography, Art Clubs learn and improve skills

Through Mr. Shumaker's knowledge, he helped the members to improve their skill in photography. He also taught them dark room techniques and how to mount pictures.

During the year, the club took pictures of Andover's football and basketball team, setting up a display and later selling them for a profit. The money was used for financing field trips to Washington's birthplace in Virginia and to The News Photographer Exhibit at the Library of Congress in Washington.

Also, during the lunch-activity period they traveled through Linthicum finding picturesque places to take pictures.

Concentrating in leather, the Art Club met during the activity period several days a week. The month before Christmas there were as many as 50 kids working on key chains, belts, shoes, and purses. They made things for themselves, and gifts and sold some items at school functions.

Some art students extended their class projects into the club's time.

Small clubs enjoy interests

RELIGION IS STILL VERY MUCH A PART OF EDUCATION. This sentiment was shown every week in the activities of the Bible Club. The club, led by Mr. John McBride, who majored in religion in college, was established to answer any questions that students had concerning the Bible and how it could be related to current issues. Activities of the club included listening to cassette tapes of various religious sermons, and observing the National Day of Prayer.

The Math Team, although lacking enough members to truly compete, did very well in county meets held at Anne Arundel Community College. John Dewaal, did particularly well, scoring several perfect scores at the competitions. Marlon Graham competed in the Regional Math Meet and scored third highest in the county with a score of 4.

Renewed with full enthusiasm this year, the Chess Club met in Mr. John Meskow's room during the activity period. The club membership with 13 male members, was at its highest in several years, and they conducted quite a few tournaments including a student-teacher competition.

All three clubs enjoyed the year's activities.
